

Follow Us:

Ads by Google
Stop seeing this ad
Why this ad?

Ads by Google
Stop seeing this ad
Why this ad?

COVID19 Follow live updates on Coronavirus pandemic in India and across globe

Home / Opinion / Columns / Kerala's investment in social sectors is helping combat Covid-19

Kerala's investment in social sectors is helping combat Covid-19

The credit should go to Kerala's robust local governance, effective social structure and well-knit multi-layered public health structure. The state may be a laggard in industrial production, but its human development indices are stellar.

Written by John Brittas | Updated: May 13, 2020 9:15:05 am

There is a renewed sense of pride among a large section of people in Kerala that the state's social indicators are at par with those of Nordic countries and that the state has outsmarted even rich Western countries in combating COVID-19. (File Photo)

Kerala is an outlier among other Indian states in terms of social indices and its success is often touted as an "experience" or a "lesson". The Kerala story has been widely talked about even by scholars such as Amartya Sen. There is a renewed sense of pride among a large section of people in Kerala that the state's social indicators are at par with those of Nordic countries and that the state has outsmarted even rich Western countries in combating COVID-19.

How is it that Kerala could effectively combat COVID-19 when the world at large appeared ill-prepared to respond to this health emergency? Kerala has the lowest mortality rate as well as the highest recovery rate with respect to coronavirus infections. The initial statistical projection of cases and deaths became redundant due to the organic method adopted by Kerala. The number of tests conducted in Kerala is just 10 per cent of the figures for countries such as the US. But aggressive contact tracing and keeping a large number of people under observation helped Kerala in preventing community spread. Ninety per cent of the positive cases were detected among people who were kept under observation.

Comparative analysis will invariably become the premise for understanding the experiences of various countries. The experiences of New York and Kerala are compared to highlight the stark difference in the approach of two systems. The population of Kerala is 33 million whereas that of New York is 19 million. The per capita income of Kerala is $2,937 while that of New York state is $88,981. There are 1.8 hospital beds for every 1,000 people in Kerala whereas the corresponding figure for New York is 3.1 beds. Kerala has 1.7 doctors per 1,000 persons, New York is credited with 3.8 doctors. However, the total corona positive cases in Kerala as on May 11 was 512 and the state had reported just four deaths. On the corresponding date, New York had over 3.4 lakh corona positive cases with more than 27,000 deaths. The credit should go to Kerala's robust local governance, effective social structure and well-knit multi-layered public health structure. The state may be a laggard in industrial production, but its human development indices are stellar.

Ad closed by criteo
Report this ad
Ad choices

ADVERTISEMENT

AKSHAYA PATRA
Feeding 1.8 million+ children's across India, Every day!
FEED NOW

EXPRESS OPINION

Opinion
How did India, in quest for global prestige, manage to lose its neighbourhood?

Opinion
'Cricket Samrat' was a window to the sport in the Hind heartland before TV, internet

Opinion
Beijing today uses muscle, money and soft power to further its hegemonic ambitions

Opinion
In post-Covid world, growth of business must not be at expense of societal well-being

ADVERTISEMENT

AKSHAYA PATRA
Feeding 1.8 million+ children's across India, Every day!
FEED NOW

BEST OF EXPRESS

US reviewing its global force posture to counter China's threat to India: Pompeo

Explained Ideas: Why India can't depend on US & EU to counter China

Entertainment
TV shows go on floors, new episodes to air from July

AKSHAYA PATRA
Feeding 1.8 million+ children's across India, Every day!
FEED NOW

Kerala is just 20 per cent of the figures for countries such as the US. But aggressive contact tracing and keeping a large number of people under observation helped Kerala in preventing community spread. Ninety per cent of the positive cases were detected among people who were kept under observation.

Comparative analysis will invariably become the premise for understanding the experiences of various countries. The experiences of New York and Kerala are compared to highlight the stark difference in the approach of two systems. The population of Kerala is 33 million whereas that of New York is 19 million. The per capita income of Kerala is $2,937 while that of New York state is $88,981. There are 1.8 hospital beds for every 1,000 people in Kerala whereas the corresponding figure for New York is 3.1 beds. Kerala has 1.7 doctors per 1,000 persons, New York is credited with 3.8 doctors. However, the total corona positive cases in Kerala as on May 11 was 512 and the state had reported just four deaths. On the corresponding date, New York had over 3.4 lakh corona positive cases with more than 27,000 deaths. The credit should go to Kerala's robust local governance, effective social structure and well-knit multi-layered public health structure. The state may be a laggard in industrial production, but its human development indices are stellar.

formation would not dilute the Left's people-centric policies for fear of a popular backlash when it is elected to office.

The message from Kerala is that the world should be prodded to do business in the state, especially in sectors such as tourism, hospitality, education, health, biotechnology and IT. Kerala's weather, friendly people, stable law and order are clearly pluses for investors. There are millions of people across the world who are curious about this small patch of land and they can be induced to have an interface with state. Moreover, the entrepreneurship of those Malayalis who would be returning with vast expertise and experience, can be channelised for productive purposes. Take the tourism sector. If each Malayali brings one tourist home, the loss the state suffered on account of the pandemic can be compensated to a large extent.

It is not an exaggeration to say that Malayalis get an adrenaline rush during a crisis and plunge into humanitarian efforts. But he or she often squanders opportunities to make the state proud on normal occasions. This is another Kerala paradox! The Malayali has a penchant to dwell on controversies, which often result in administrators and decision-makers wasting their time over trivial matters. Paul Antony, a former chief secretary of Kerala, once said the only industry that was thriving in the state was that of controversy!

Kerala cannot afford to miss new opportunities coming its way in this fast-changing world unless it wants to miss the bus of progress and development. Late US President John F Kennedy is reported to have said: "The Chinese use two brush strokes to write the word 'crisis'. One brush stroke stands for danger; the other for opportunity. In a crisis, be aware of the danger — but recognise the opportunity." Kennedy may have misunderstood the Chinese characters, but Kerala should lean on the second brush stroke he spoke about and turn the present adversity into opportunity.

This article appeared in the print edition of May 13, 2020, under the title 'The Kerala way'. The writer is managing director of Kairali TV, and media advisor to the Chief Minister of Kerala

Inform your opinion. Read what today's changemakers are saying.
Subscribe to our Opinion & Editorial newsletter

 The Indian Express is now on Telegram. Click here to join our channel (@indianexpress) and stay updated with the latest headlines

For all the latest Opinion News, download Indian Express App.

TAGS: Coronavirus India Lockdown

17 Comment(s) *

* The moderation of comments is automated and not cleared manually by indianexpress.com.

Taboola Food

COVID-19 Doesn't Scare Them as Much as Starving

FEED NOW

BEST OF EXPRESS

US reviewing its global force posture to counter China's threat to India: Pompeo

Explained Ideas: Why India can't depend on US & EU to counter China

Entertainment TV shows go on floors, new episodes to air from July

Feeding 1.8 million+ children's across India, Every day!

FEED NOW

Lifestyle In the mood for khaman dhokla? Try this easy recipe in kadhai or steamer

Technology Facebook will alert users if they are about to share old news articles

ADVERTISEMENT

Feeding 1.8 million+ children's across India, Every day!

FEED NOW

MUST READ

Sports Liverpool crowned Premier League champions as Chelsea beat City

Sports Tonight we couldn't hold back: Klopp breaks down after Liverpool's title win

Sports 54 National Sports Federations lose recognition after High Court order

Technology Facebook will alert users if they are about to share old news articles

Technology Google Photos gets a massive redesign

Technology OnePlus' next smartphone will rival iPhone SE

Lifestyle In the mood for khaman dhokla? Try this easy recipe in kadhai or steamer

MORE EXPLAINED

Only US, Brazil & Russia have higher case loads than India

In space, growing private role

The property dispute among the Hinduja brothers

Why dropping 'Fair' from 'Fair & Lovely' matters

JUN 26: LATEST NEWS